

Mountain Columbine

Of all the wild flowers with an intricate design,
There's none that I like better than the mountain columbine.
Its face looks like a flower nestled in a larger bloom;
Its back stick out behind it like a multi-pointed plume.
Its color varies widely, but I like the blues the best;
And it's quite a thrill to find one In the mountains of the west.